LONG TRIP—Thomas Lee Armstrong and James Henry Armstrong had a long trip from their Lynn Grove farm to the Planter's Loose Leaf floor Tuesday afternoon. They brought this wagonload of tobacco from Lynn Grove to Murray with a pair of two-year old mules, the first load of county leaf to be brought in such a manner in several years. The tobacco weighed in at over 6,000 pounds. The local sale continued today on the three Murray floors. The prices appeared to be holding steady this morning with more sales of up to $1.06 per pound reported in Murray today.

Ford Outlines Blueprint For Rescuing Economy In State Of The Union Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring "I've got bad news, and I don't expect any applause," President Ford outlined for Congress today his blueprint for rescuing the slumping economy through tax cuts and higher fuel prices.

Virtually all of Ford's specific proposals were disclosed in his television-radio address to the nation Monday or by White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen at a news briefing Tuesday.

The major elements of the President's program include: —A one-time tax cut of 12 per cent in last year's taxes, to be accomplished through rebates to individual taxpayers of up to $1,000.

—A long-term tax reduction starting this year, with the largest reductions going to the poorest taxpayers.

—Proposals to cut corporate income taxes and increase tax credits for businesses that spend money on their plants and equipment.

—Direct federal payments of $80 to each adult American too poor to pay any income taxes.

—An increase in revenue-sharing funds to state and local governments.

—A proposal for a $2-a-barrel tax on crude oil and higher excise taxes on oil, plus total de-control of all domestic oil prices. The result would be an increase of about 10 cents a gallon for gasoline and home heating oil. White House officials also estimated that the excise-tax increase would cause a one-shot increase of 2 per cent in the Consumer Price Index.

—A request for standby authority to ration gasoline if higher costs fail to meet his objective of reducing oil imports by a million barrels a day this year and two million in 1976.

Ford did disclose a few new proposals in his State of the Union message and a shorter address delivered personally to a joint session of Congress.

Ford revealed he wants to stockpile 1.3 billion barrels of crude oil in tanks and underground caverns over a period of years so the country could cope with any repetition of the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo.

The President also said for the first time that he wants to grant utilities a three-year investment tax credit of 12 per cent "to specifically speed the construction of power plants that do not use natural gas or oil." The present tax credit rate for utilities is 4 per cent.

One presidential proposal that could ultimately have a major impact on the average citizen was not mentioned in W. I., and police discovered a variety of contraband in the vehicle.

Confiscated by police were: a .22 rifle, 2 1/2 "lids" of marijuana; a quantity of assorted pills, mostly Darvon; an assortment of materials which, according to police, could be used to make explosives; smoking devices; several hand weapons, and a crowbar.

The two appeared this morning before Judge Miller and received 60-day suspended jail terms and placed on one year's probation. The confiscated materials were not returned to the two, but the rifle is to be returned later to Arndt's brother, who lives in the area.

Suspended Jail Sentence Given On Drug Charges

Two Texas residents were given suspended jail terms and told to "clear out of town" by Judge Robert O. Miller today after being charged with possession of marijuana, possession of a controlled substance, and carrying a concealed deadly weapon.

Dale Jankoviak, 22, and Bradford Arndt, 22, both of Austin, Texas, pleaded guilty in county court today to the marijuana and weapon charges. The third charge was dismissed.

Murray City Police found the contraband after stopping the car in which the two were riding on suspicion of D. W. I. last night. Arndt, the driver of the car, was then charged with D.

San Franciscans Turn Dog Hair Into Clothes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Not ones to waste anything in today's depressed economy, some San Franciscans are making sweaters, skirts, scarves, gloves and hats. All from their dogs' hair.

"Twenty dogs can make a mountain of hair. You might as well use it," said Frances Roe in an interview Tuesday. "It makes a super warm sweater."

Mrs. Roe said she meets almost every month with friends who, like her, own Samoyeds, an arctic dog commonly used for pulling sleds. The friends are carrying bags of the stuff obtained through normal shedding and combing and sit about turning it into yarn and then articles of clothing.

"There is something so aesthetically pleasing about wearing something made from your own dog's hair," said Bob Jones, a department store display builder. He contends the Samoyed's moderately long hair is best for spinning yarn, though he sometimes combines it with St. Bernard, Pomeranian or collie hair. It is important to keep one Samoyed's hair separated from another's, because owners insist on wearing something made of hair from their own dog.

Mrs. Roe says she plans to invest in an electric spinner to speed up the manufacturing process. Using a manual spinner, "it takes about an hour to spin an ounce, but an ounce goes a long way."

The group is considering going commercial and selling its articles. Jones said some of the group will charge "between $30 and $40 a pound for the hair."

Ford's text but was spelled out in a White House-prepared fact sheet.

First Decline In 14 Months

Wholesale Prices Drop In December

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices declined in December for the first time in 14 months, the government reported today, providing further indication of slowing inflation.

The Labor Department said declining agricultural prices more than offset a small increase for industrial commodities last month as over-all wholesale prices fell five-tenths of a per cent. It was the first decline since prices fell one-tenth of a per cent in October 1973.

Despite the December decline, wholesale prices for 1974 were up 20.9 per cent, the biggest annual increase since prices rose 31.1 per cent in 1946 following the end of World War II price controls.

The report provided a dose of encouragement for President Ford as he prepared to deliver his State of the Union message to Congress.

Government analysts said the decline in wholesale prices indicated a breaking in the nation's inflationary rate as the effects of the recession spread through the economy.

Industrial prices rose 25.6 per cent over the past year while prices for processed foods and feeds jumped 20.9 per cent. Farm product prices dropped 1.9 per cent over the same period.

In December, farm products declined 4.1 per cent, processed foods and feeds were down 1.5 per cent and industrial prices failed to register any increase on a seasonally adjusted basis. Unadjusted, industrial commodities increased two-tenths of a per cent, the smallest increase in more than a year.

Wholesale price increases have moderated in recent months and the trend is expected to be reflected in retail prices in the coming months.

During the final quarter of 1974, wholesale prices climbed at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 13.4 per cent, substantially slower than the 35.2 per cent rate in the third quarter but still higher than the 12.2 per cent increase during the second quarter of the year.

Purchase Of Hazel Community Center Is Announced Today

Representatives of a group of Hazel Citizens have announced the purchase of the cafeteria building on the campus of the Hazel school from Herman K. Ellis today.

The purchase was voted upon last night by the group, with an agreed price of $5,500. The price includes the cafeteria building, and an L-shaped piece of ground that includes nearly all the softball field behind the cafeteria.

The group said that contributions are still needed for the purchase of the building and land, and for improvements to the building. The group would not disclose the amount of money which has been collected so far.

Representatives of the group met with the Calloway Fiscal Court to ask help on the purchase of the property on Monday, and the court agreed to participate with a $1,000 grant toward the purchase. The building will be used as a community center for organizations such as the Woodmen, Woman's Club, Senior Citizens, and others.

Warm thanks from a cold turkey

DEAR ABBY: I thought you might be interested in the following true story:

On November 29, I flew from Dallas, Texas to Little Rock, Arkansas. The flight was filled, and because I got on at the last minute I was given a seat in the NO SMOKING section.

I wanted a cigarette, so I took one out of the pack and put it in my mouth, but before lighting it, I turned to the very attractive lady who was my seat partner, and asked, "Do you mind if I smoke?"

She smiled a pretty smile and replied, "Why don't you do us both a favor, sir, and refrain?"

I was jolted. I put the cigarette back in the package and haven't had one since. In other words, I quit—cold turkey! After being a two-pack-a-day man, that's quite an accomplishment. Nobody can believe it.

It took a few words from a stranger to get me to do something I've been putting off for years. Why am I telling you this, Abby? Because you were that woman. How can I thank you?

COLD TURKEY IN ARKANSAS

DEAR COLD: You just did. Write to me next year at this time, and if you're still "clean," I'll send you a present!

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that the Number One complaint of wives is, "My husband doesn't appreciate me."

Well, my husband must be an exception because he never leaves the table without saying, "Thanks for dinner, honey."

Gerald phones me from work every day just to ask how things are going with our five sons and me. He reminds me often that he loves me, and he never fails to tell me I look nice when I do.

I could fill a book with his good points, and couldn't even fill a page with his bad points.

We just celebrated our 12th wedding anniversary, and this was the best. They keep getting better every year, Abby.

I know this won't make your column because you have so many more important letters to print, but I just had to let you know that there's a wife in Monroe, N.Y., whose husband really does appreciate her. MAUREEN HARAN

DEAR MAUREEN: I think it's important to let people know that there are good marriages, too, so accept my belated anniversary congratulations. And take good care of Gerald. He sounds like a prince. And you must be a pretty special wife to deserve such royal treatment.

DEAR ABBY: So the Number One complaint of husbands is, "My wife nags me!" Well, put me down as one husband whose wife nags him—and he's glad of it. Thank God she nags me. It shows she loves me.

I kept putting off going to the doctor to get a checkup, and she finally nagged me into going. The doc said I had to lose 25 pounds, and I kept putting off going on a diet, but my wife nagged me until I went to Weight Watchers. God love her. I finally went—and I lost 32 pounds! And I'm maintaining that weight.

Now my wife is nagging me to see a lawyer and have a will made. I haven't done it yet, but I hope she doesn't quit nagging me before I get hit by a bus.

So, Abby, old girl, please tell your readers that if a wife doesn't nag her husband, she doesn't really love him. Sign me... NAGGED IN TUCSON

Mrs. Calvin Key Shows Her Depression Glass

The Calloway County Public Library is currently featuring a Depression Glass display from the collection of Mrs. Calvin Key.

The display features 21 butter dishes (some rare) and place settings in 35 of the most collected patterns by collectors. Depression Glass is the colored glassware made primarily during the Depression years from the late 1920's through the 1930's. This glass, made in the colors of amber, green, pink, blue, red, yellow, white and crystal, was made in quantity and sold or given away as premiums during the era known as the Depression years.

At one time most all pieces of this glass were easily found, but today many of the major patterns, especially the butter dishes, are listed as scarce and of increasing value.

Depression Glass has emerged as an accepted collectable in many of the better known antique-collecting worlds and has as many new collectors today as any other field of antiques. The display at the library gives an impressive and accurate array of the most collected patterns known in the Depression Glass field and presents a spectacular sight.

Mrs. Key has one of the largest stocks of Depression Glass in this area and sells Depression Glass by mail order, coast to coast, and to Alaska and Canada.

"Everyone is invited to stop by the library and view this interesting and very attractive display," a library spokesman said.

Small 'C' Dose May Help Cold

Vitamin C, heralded in the last few years as effective in combating the symptoms of colds when consumed in large doses, may be effective in much smaller amounts than previously believed.

Dr. Terence W. Anderson, an epidemiologist at the University of Toronto, reported on the therapeutic value of reduced dosages of Vitamin C at a conference in New York.

A 30 per cent reduction in the severity of cold symptoms was reported among persons who took only a small amount of Vitamin C — less than 250 milligrams a day regularly and one gram a day when cold symptoms occurred, he reported.

The amounts of Vitamin C recommended by the Canadian researcher represent only a fraction of those advocated by Dr. Linus Pauling three years ago in his book "Vitamin C and the Common Cold."

AA getting more women

SAN FRANCISCO
Women are joining Alcoholics Anonymous in greater numbers than ever before.

Dr. John L. Norris, chairman of the AA's board of trustees, said this week that nearly one of every three new members was a woman.

Norris told a news conference at the North American Congress on Alcohol and Drug Problems that there were two reasons for this.

"First," he said, "is the increasing number of articles in women's literature on the subject and second is the change in social customs. Availability of alcohol at women's meetings is now almost universal. Only 25 years ago the accepted drink at such meetings was tea."

Norris said 28 per cent of AA's current membership are women but they accounted for 31 per cent of the organization's new rank and file.

Dear Consumer

CAPsule Review Of Consumer Aid

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
Office of Consumer Affairs
Department of Health, Education and Welfare

If you have a problem with a product you have purchased, what can you do?

The first step is to contact the store where you bought the item or the company that made it. But if that doesn't work, what do you do?

To help consumers solve their complaints quickly and effectively, several industries and associations have developed new complaint-handling programs.

Four industries—appliances, carpets and rugs, furniture and automobiles—have set up consumer action panels (CAPs) to help consumers who can't get their complaints resolved by retailers or manufacturers. If you have such a complaint, send all pertinent data (problem, name of manufacturer, retail store, date of purchase, and copies of all correspondence concerning the matter) to the CAP involved. Your letter will be sent to the manufacturer, and he will have to inform the CAP of the action he has taken. If you are not satisfied, the panel will render a decision. MACAP (Major Appliance Consumer Action Panel), 20 N. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60606.

CRICAP (Carpet and Rug Institute Consumer Action Panel), Box 951, High Point, N.C. 27261.

FICAP (Furniture Industry Consumer Advisory Panel), Box 951, High Point, N.C. 27261. AutoCAP uses local and state panels organized under the auspices of National Automobile Dealers Association (NADA). There are 19 local AutoCAPs in operation. To find out if there is one in your area, contact your state or local automobile trade association or write NADA, 2000 K St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Council of Better Business Bureaus has developed a National Consumer Arbitration Program under which participating local BBBs offer free arbitration to consumers and businesses. For details, contact your local Better Business Bureau or Council of Better Business Bureaus, 1150 17th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

American Arbitration Association has also established an arbitration program to settle consumer disputes. The association has set up a National Center for Dispute Settlement, 1212 16th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036, with regional centers:

Undermining Property Rights

By Anthony Harrigan

It is a virtual certainty that when the new Congress convenes in January a fresh attempt will be made to pass a federal land use control law.

Everyone who is concerned about the safeguarding of property rights, which are fundamental to personal liberties, should be aware of how land use control legislation undermines those rights.

A case in point is the land use control law in force on the California seacoast. I refer to the coastal zone law passed by the initiative system on Nov. 7, 1972, and referred to as Proposition 20.

Under provisions of the California law, a coastal land use control zone was established, extending from Oregon to the Mexican border. Within this zone, development, construction or modifications to property may proceed only after a permit has been obtained from one of six Regional Coastal Commissions.

The limitation of individual property rights is clearly spelled out in this law which declares that "the California Coastal Zone is a distinct and valuable natural resource belonging to all the people." There isn't any provision in the law for compensation to owners for expropriation of private property rights.

The coastal commissioners have operated in a high-handed manner. In the case of one property owner, who sought to erect a building on a four-acre parcel of coastal land, the Commission denied use of the land for housing. The Commission staff said that the four-acre tract might be used for a golf course or a cattle ranch. It is a bit difficult to have a one-acre golf course or a four-acre cattle ranch.

Dr. M. Bruce Johnson, professor of economics at the University of California, Santa Barbara, has served on the Regional Coastal Commission and outlined the ways in which property rights have been undermined. In an article in Reason Magazine, Prof. Johnson notes:

"The expropriation of private property rights in this manner, the state-wide election and public hearings notwithstanding, can only be regarded as rank theft. Proposition 20 violates the spirit and the letter of the 5th Amendment guarantee that private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation."

"The Constitution was once regarded as both a guarantee of individual rights of action and a limitation on the acts of the state. The contemporary situation is almost the reverse; under its police powers, the state has arrogated to itself the right to do virtually anything it pleases while individuals may act only by permission. According to Proposition 20, the applicant (individual land owner) shall have the burden of proof on all issues."

"Even if a case could be made for state rather than individual resource allocation, I find no grounds for expropriating citizens' private property without just compensation. Why doesn't the state buy the land it wishes to use, modify, or preserve?"

"The environmentalists' answer: 'The cost of purchasing the land that society wants to save is far greater than the amount society can pay (i.e., wants to pay). No doubt that is correct, but it is also evident that society gives higher ranking and priority to alternative uses of its public funds."

"In other words, the public wants the environmental preservation of private land, but only if it is free!"

What we find in California's Coastal Zone Conservation Act is a major violation of the constitutional rights of those individuals who own property in the seacoast.

Hopefully, the American people will familiarize themselves with Proposition 20 and learn from it. It would be tragic if a federal land use control law were passed that extended expropriation of property rights to all 50 states.

Consumer Comments

On Buying Gold

By Ed W. Hancock
Attorney General of Kentucky

We've entered the golden era; consumers are allowed to buy and sell gold for the first time in forty years. But federal agencies have warned us: "Consumers may find that the purchase of gold is more of a minefield than a gold mine unless they are familiar with the risks."

Consumers who may know little about gold bullion and ingots are certainly susceptible to any attempts by swindlers to take advantage of the public's fascination with gold. As this office has said before, "All that glitters is not gold."

To decide if gold is in appropriate investment for you, consult a brokerage firm, banker or financial advisor. And if you do decide to buy gold, remember to read the sale agreement thoroughly. If you don't understand it, don't sign it.

Be wary when agreeing to pay, in person or through the mail, before receiving either the merchandise or proof that the gold is being held on your behalf. Other states have reported that several firms selling silver this way went out of business and left unfilled orders worth hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Five federal agencies recently issued guidelines called "The Golden Rules," outlining some steps investors should take for protection against fraud:

- Be wary of unsolicited correspondence or calls from strangers offering to sell you gold;
- Be skeptical of promises of spectacular profits. Ask yourself why you are being offered this golden opportunity;
- Resist pressures to make hurried, unimposed investment decisions;
- Be suspicious of claims of new, secret or exotic processes to extract gold;

—Seek independent advice from a person you trust and who is knowledgeable;

—Consider the risks in relation to your own financial position and needs;

—Find out if the company has registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission or the Kentucky Department of Banking and Securities;

—Attempt to determine the seller's mark-up or how much it cost the seller to purchase the gold;

—Ascertain what costs, in addition to the quoted price of gold, are involved. You may be required to pay a refining charge, assay fees, commissions, shipping and storage fees, insurance costs and sales tax;

—Demand a written guarantee concerning weight and fineness or purity;

—Attempt to make your purchases through local, reputable firms;

—Find out when and how the gold will be delivered and stored, including what security precautions will be taken to ensure that your gold isn't shaved or that counterfeit gold isn't substituted;

—Ask whether the gold will be segregated and stored in your name, not the seller's or supplier's. Make sure you receive a written receipt showing that the correct amount of gold is being stored for your account by a reputable concern;

—Ask whether there will be a ready market for the gold in the form being offered to you. You may have to pay to have your gold recast into a different shape or size or transported to a distant market before you can sell it.

If you have a consumer complaint, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, The Capitol, Frankfort, Kentucky. The toll-free hotline number is 1-800-372-2960.

Trade Agreement Breakdown Destroys Detente Foundation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The breakdown in U.S.-Soviet trade has destroyed a foundation stone of superpower detente and removed the main American lever for pushing Moscow toward better relations.

According to repeated statements by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, a stable and relaxed Washington-Moscow relationship had to be based on more than mutual military terror.

A major start toward this goal came in June 1972 when Russian and American negotiators signed an agreement that promised to lead to the large and intricate commercial linkage Kissinger wanted.

That promise was left shattered Tuesday when Kissinger announced Moscow's renunciation of the agreement because Congress had insisted on making further trade dependent on Moscow's relaxation of restrictions on Russian Jewish emigration.

Kissinger was careful in his news conference to say that the Soviet statements on the trade breakdown showed no sign of a wider political deterioration.

At the same time, American policy makers clearly were worried in private discussions. They said the United States now had little more than military threats to use if Moscow acted up. "If we can't offer them larger credits, or threaten to cut back on credits, what are we supposed to do, threaten them with force?" asked one White House source.

Even in his public presentation, Kissinger appeared to move toward a stronger line than he has used recently toward Moscow when speaking of possible tougher Russian behavior.

Should the Soviet rejection of the trade bill "herald a period of intensified pressure... the United States would resist with great determination," he said.

Kissinger also said he would work to remove the objections that brought Russian ire and "pursue the policy of relaxation of tensions and... improve relationships leading to a stable peace."

Whether this can be done is doubtful in the minds of some U.S. policymakers, at least in the near future. They indicated that Kissinger probably will let the situation sit for quite a while before seeking congressional reversal of its stand on Jewish emigration.

He wants the trade development to sink in on both Congress and the American people in hopes of convincing them now that his policy has to be followed if there is to be a stable world order.

New Congressmen Differ From Old

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pity the freshman congressmen, the new kids on the block, as they learn the ropes at the beginning of the 94th Congress.

Statistics show they are different from their more experienced colleagues who are old hands at this business of being a U.S. representative.

—They are a bit better educated than the incumbents.

—They had to fight somewhat harder to win the opportunity to sit on the crowded House floor today and listen to President Ford's State of the Union address and wrestle for the next two years with the nation's problems.

—They are younger, the apparent lot of freshmen everywhere.

—There are more women, proportionately, among the freshmen than the rest of the Congress.

—And they are less likely to be married. These differences between the new members of the 94th Congress and the old hands emerged from an Associated Press computerized study of the Congress.

There are 92 freshmen among the 435 House members, an increase over recent years. Seventy-five of the new people are Democrats; 17 are Republicans.

Only 10 per cent of the new congressmen don't have a college degree. Fourteen per cent of the incumbents didn't finish college.

The incumbents have more law degrees — 33 per cent have the degree, while only 45 per cent of the freshmen have legal training.

But when all advanced degrees are tallied, the freshmen hold a slight edge with 68 per cent having advanced degrees compared to the incumbents' 65 per cent.

The incumbents had a much easier go of it in winning reelection than the freshmen. Incumbents were so popular they averaged about 60 per cent of the popular vote. Forty-seven of them didn't even draw opposition. But the freshmen were nip and tuck in their election battles, averaging only 54 per cent of the popular vote.

The experienced congressmen have an average age of 52. The freshmen average about 39. One-third of the freshmen are under 35, although their ages range from 25 years old to 64. The youngest incumbent is 30, the oldest 82. Only 10 per cent of the incumbents are over 65.

The freshmen have twice as many women members as the incumbents, proportionately. There are six women in the new group of congressmen, or 7 per cent women. There are 12 women among the incumbent congressmen, or 3.5 per cent.

The experienced congressmen are a bit more likely to be married — 50 per cent of the incumbents versus 31 per cent of the freshmen.

Data for the study was gathered from official biographies or biographical information supplied by the congressmen's staff members.

Toys Can Be Dangerous

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

Some toys can be dangerous — an important fact to be kept in mind when shopping.

Toy-related accidents have been reduced in frequency from the estimated 700,000 annually in the late 1960s. Such accidents continue to occur at a high rate despite the federal Child Protection Toy Safety Act, which became effective in 1970.

The toy market is booming at $5 billion per year. Buyers should be alert to the fact that many dangerous toys continue on the market.

Watch for certain hazards. Some can be listed as follows:

- Cutting Edges. These may be related to the design of the toy or to a sharp, ragged edge of a plastic or metal part. Wooden toys may have splinters or protruding nails. Does the stuffed animal have sharp claws? Before buying a toy, watch for such potentially undesirable features by picking it up and handling it.

- Moving Parts. Will they catch a finger and cut or pinch it? Watch for springs that compress and could crush a hand or toe. Moving gears and chains should be covered by safety guards.

- Sturdiness. Will the plastic or other material break easily? Will small parts come off? Children can put such pieces in their mouths and swallow them or inhale them into the windpipe.

- Powered Toys. Shooting toys — whether a B-B gun, a rocket, a bow and arrow, or a toy cannon — are potentially hazardous. The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness reports that about 100 young persons per day experience eye injuries from toys. Electrical toys may shock or burn. Some are poorly wired.

When there are several children of different ages in a home, keep in mind whether a toy for one child may be dangerous for another. The age and interests of a child must be kept in mind in buying a toy.

Q. Mr. C.H. is concerned because he passes much more urine on some days than on others and wants to know whether this condition is normal.

A. The question is often asked. The amount of urine passed each day can vary markedly and be normal. The volume of urine is influenced by many factors — the amount of fluids consumed, the fluid loss by sweat or from the breath, and the nature of your diet on a particular day. An examination by your physician, including a urine analysis, should be done.

Q. Mr. R.B. asks if "shingles" is a contagious disease.

A. Yes — mildly so. The cause is a virus. It is likely present many times without any manifestation of a typical acute episode. Mild cases may account for some of our unexplained aches and pains. When present in an adult, a case of "shingles" (herpes zoster) may flare up, without any certainty of exposure to another acute case, and is viewed by medical authorities as a possible manifestation of a lowered resistance on the part of the victim, who may have the beginning of some other debilitating condition not yet apparent. Therefore, such acute cases, when they have subsided, warrant a complete work-up to evaluate the person's general health.

Murray High Goes To 5-4 For Season By Smashing Sedalia

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

A 14-point win over a team that's won only one game all year doesn't seem very impressive does it?

So much for first thoughts! Looking at times like one of the best teams in the First Region, the Murray High Tigers roared to a big lead and coasted on to an 80-66 road win over Sedalia Tuesday night.

Coming into the contest, Sedalia had only a 1-12 record. And it didn't take very long to realize that after the game, the Lions would be 1-13.

Striking quickly, the Tigers played a cat and mouse game with the Lions and actually had an easier time than the final score might indicate.

For Murray High Coach Bob Toon, the contest ended in the achievement of a goal.

The Tigers opened the season by losing their first four games, before finally ending the skid by nipping Symsonia 53-50.

At that time, Toon and his team decided the balance of the season decided on the next four games. If the Tigers could take a 5-4 record into their January 17 game at Mayfield, then it was likely a successful season was in store.

And that's just what the Tigers have done. The win over Sedalia was the fifth straight win and Murray High will carry a winning record into their Friday battle with Mayfield.

"We'll have to play our best game of the year to beat Mayfield," Toon said.

"I still think we haven't played it yet. We should improve more as the players on the bench get more of a chance to work together."

The players on the bench got their chance at Sedalia.

In the third quarter, with the Tigers leading by as much as 20 points, Toon had several reserves in the game.

Murray never did trail, jumping to a 4-0 lead in the first period and leading 16-6 at the end of the first period.

Leading 20-13, the Tigers hit a scoring binge and outpointed the Lions 10-4 to move out to a 30-17 bulge as junior forward David Frank netted two charity tosses at the 2:54 mark of the second period.

Then in the final minute, with Murray ahead 32-21, Bob Wilder hit a 10-footer and senior forward Phil Miller hit two long shots and the Tigers led 38-21 at intermission.

Wilder, a 6-5 junior, was in foul trouble much of the first half and played only a couple of minutes in the second half. He finished the game with just two points.

"We played real fine the first half. We were able to hit the open men with our passing."

The men running the passing attack was sophomore guard Raymond Sims who had bundles of assists in the game.

Time after time, Sims would fire a bullet pass under the basket and hit either Frank or Miller with a "crisp."

Several times in the third period, with Wilder out of the game, Sedalia cut into the Murray High lead.

"I thought they called the game a little tight on Wilder," Toon said.

"I don't know why."

Toon wasn't alone in his thinking as it looked like somebody was trying to get rid of Wilder in a hurry as several fouls were called that normally wouldn't have been fouls.

Coasting along with a 48-28 lead, the Tigers ran into some problems when Sedalia slapped on a press. And by the end of the quarter, the Tigers led just 55-42.

The Lions scored the first basket of the last canto and cut the gap to 11 but then the Tigers ripped in eight consecutive points and moved out to a comfortable 63-44 cushion.

Bob Cavitt finished the contest with 22 points to pace the Lions while Scotty McAlpin added 16 and Forrester came off the bench to chip in with 15.

Miller, hitting about everything he shot from outside, scored 22 in a super performance while Sims added 20 in his best game of the season. Frank, also playing his best game, and controlling the offensive boards along with Miller and scoring on numerous tips and feed passes from Sims, added 19.

In the rebounding department, with Wilder out most of the game, the Tigers had a slim 33-27 edge. Miller had 11, Frank nine and Hudspeth eight.

The preliminary game found Murray coasting to an easy 70-39 win.

Big Andrea Perry came off the bench in the second period and finished with a game high 22 points while Keith Tabers tossed in 16. Other scoring included Richie Richardson 9, Bill McHugh 7, Donnie Williams 6, Brett Harcourt 5, Lindy Suiter 4 and Barry Wells 2.

The "B" team will not play Friday night at Mayfield as the two girls varsity teams will play the preliminary.

Injuries Don't Prove Very Costly To Denver

DENVER (AP) — A series of nagging injuries failed to prevent the Denver Nuggets from posting their 23rd straight American Basketball Association victory at home Tuesday night.

The streaking Nuggets, playing without veteran guard Mack Calvin, got standout performances from a pair of youngsters in rolling over the Kentucky Colonels 118-99.

The victory, before a record home crowd of 7,428, gave Denver a 36-6 mark and a commanding 12 1/2-game lead over runner-up San Antonio in the Western Division of the ABA.

No other ABA teams were in action Tuesday night. On Wednesday night, Denver travels to San Diego, Kentucky plays Virginia in Norfolk, St. Louis is at Memphis, New York at Indiana and Utah at San Antonio.

Second-year pro Mike Green tossed in 27 points and rookie Jan van Breda Kolff added a career-high 19 for Denver, which hasn't lost on its home floor all season.

Green, a doubtful starter because of an ankle injury, led both teams in scoring despite playing only 30 minutes.

Calvin, missing from the Denver line-up since Jan. 3 with an injured finger, and reserve Pat McFarland, who has a twisted ankle, did not see action against the Colonels. Byron Beck was hampered by a swollen eye, but still scored 13 points.

Van Breda Kolff, son of New Orleans Jazz Coach Bill van Breda Kolff, had his best night as a pro on both ends of the court.

He scored 11 of his points in the first quarter as Denver spurred to a 29-14 lead late in the period.

"Ever since I've been a pro," the 6-foot-8 rookie from Vanderbilt said, "I've been trying to put everything together — offense, defense, passing."

Tonight I felt I accomplished that."

Nuggets' Coach Larry Brown said it was obvious that van Breda Kolff "was doing what we expect of him. What wasn't so obvious was the excellent defensive job on Louie Dampier." Dampier was held to 13 points by Denver's Ralph Simpson, who finished with 18 himself.

Fatty Taylor also had 18 for the Nuggets.

Dan Issel, held to four points in the first half, led the Colonels with 25 points, and Bird Averitt had 19.

The loss, only the Colonels' third in the last 15 games, dropped them one-half game behind first-place New York in the ABA East.

Marshalls Drop 81-52 Contest To St. Mary

By DAVID GORE
St. Mary High School made a clean sweep Tuesday evening by defeating the host Marshall County Marshalls in three games, winning the girls varsity 55-29, the junior varsity 49-42 and finally, slamming the varsity 81-52.

In a surprisingly quick first period, the Vikings started off victory number 11 by outscoring the Marshalls by a 2-1 margin.

The first quarter, as well as the rest of the game, was blessed with few fouls. In the first period, only three fouls were called, two against Marshall County and one against the Vikings.

At the end of the quarter, St. Mary led 16-8.

The second quarter opened with John Weglicki popping a 10-footer, giving the Viking a 10-point spread.

The ball was returned to the Marshall end of the floor where hands flew up to retrieve a missed shot and George Phelps tipped in the score for the Marshalls, again trimming the Viking lead to just eight points.

The team's leading point getters, Gene Roof of St. Mary and Dale Lovett of Marshall County, battled it down to the last second of the half, which ended as Rick Cochran fired a 15-footer in for the Vikings, leaving the Marshalls trailing 38-18.

The third period opened with a bucket by Weglicki. The Marshalls took the ball against a strong press employed by St. Mary and David Reed passed off to Dale Lovett, alone in the corner, and he fired in a two-point.

The Vikings then gained a 20-point spread with Roof making the basket. The Marshalls never came any closer than 16 points in the third quarter, which ended with St. Mary leading 54-38 as Rosa and McGregor hit consecutive baskets in a Marshall point flurry. Trailing 67-43, the Marshalls were quickly outscored 10-3 and the Vikings held a comfortable 77-46 lead.

McGregor hit four points as the Vikings were scoring four and then Bobby Smith scored two for the last Marshall County points as the Vikings' sword came down on the Marshalls for the third time of the evening.

Roof paced the scoring attack for the Vikings with 25 points while Rick Cochran added 20 while Weglicki and Russ Cochran each scored 10.

Lovett scored 16 for the Marshalls while McGregor added 14 points.

The Marshalls, now 3-7 for the season, will play at Reidland Friday.

Lakers Survive Cold-Shooting Game To Coast Over Cuba

By STEVE W. GIVENS
Ledger & Times Sports Writer

Jack Frost does not keep a regular schedule, pay income taxes, or even live in Calloway County...but something or someone with his chilling characteristics was active in Jeffery Gymnasium last night.

Perhaps fans from the host Calloway County Lakers knew, or someone let the Cuba Cubs fans in on the secret, but nevertheless, one of the smallest crowds in several seasons saw the Lakers slap the Cubs, 66-43.

The reasons Frost was a suspect are numerous:

—Outside it was well below freezing temperature, but nothing like the rim of the basket for the visitors in the first quarter when they collected just seven points.

—After CCHS had spurred to that advantage, it managed only five more points in the next three minutes before finding the range for a 36-19 halftime edge.

During opening minutes of the third canto, the Cubs poured through 10 points to just two for the Lakers to rally within 53-40 as CCHS managed a mere pair of free throws until 5:08 showed.

Regardless, Coach David King improved his seasonal record to 7-6 and got playing time from several of his reserves as 6-9 senior center James Wells took frequent rests during the action.

Wells was far from absent, however, as he managed 13 points and closed off most of the inside shots for Cuba High, now 4-11.

The Cubs had their only advantage of the contest when 6-2 guard Jimmy Wiggins dropped one of two free throws with 7:37 left in the first period. But it took the Lakers some time to slip away as Mark Miller canned a 15-foot shot and then Wells hit a lay-up with 5:59 left to provide CCHS with a 4-1 edge.

David Thorne got the Lakers loose when he fought inside for a lay-up and then sandwiched a 10-foot shot around a jumper by substitute CCHS guard Mike Wells. Thorne was fouled on the shot, which made it 14-5, and got the free throw to provide breathing room.

Wiggins hit Cuba's final two-point shot of the period when he faked Wells out of the way and scored on a jumper off the backboard with 30 seconds showing that made it 19-7.

Coach Louis Sims saw his team outpoint the hosts 8-6 during the next few minutes and the Cubs were down only 25-14 when Wells picked up his third foul with 2:39 left in the half. But everything turned cold for CCHS as it only managed two more points the remainder of the canto.

Thorne, meanwhile, added four markers, while Miller dropped in a free throw and a beautiful hook shot after he faked his man out of position. Tommy Futrell, the Lakers' shifty and deadly guard, contributed several key assists during the first half, particularly one just before the halftime buzzer to Miller who made it 36-19.

Both squads came out of the dressing room cold as Wells put back a rebound of his younger brother's shot with 5:19 left in the canto for the first tally of the second half.

Wiggins connected on both ends of a trip to the line seconds later to make it 38-21, but Thorne made a trip downtown to void the points. Futrell stole the ball at midcourt and blasted down the lane untouched for a lay-up before the Cubs called for time.

Evidently, something on the court had displeased Coach Sims of CCHS as he immediately began talking to one of the game officials. But he ignored repeated motions to move back towards his players and the other official slapped a technical on the Cub head mentor.

Cuba lost a point on the exchange of words as Futrell canned the free shot with 3:21 left, but 6-0 forward Jeff Clinard broke through the Lakers' man-to-man defense a minute later for an easy score to cut the margin.

The Cubs got four quick points near the end of the period when Wiggins drew a foul and hit both shots then grabbed a Laker missed shot and hustled downtown for a 15-foot shot.

Then CCHS had the spark it needed as Wiggins canned another long shot which made it 51-30 before 6-0 guard Terry Edwards hit a basket and Clinard pumped in a jumper. After another pair of free throws, Cuba got four more points on back-to-back scores by Wiggins and suddenly, the Cubs trailed only 53-37.

Mike Clinard, a 6-0 guard, tallied next on a lay-up and hit the free throw, which followed after he was fouled on the shot, with 5:15 remaining in the action.

But the spree was over for the green-clad visitors when the shortest Cub starter, 5-10 Ricky Walker, blocked a shot by Greg Byers of Calloway. Byers was fouled but missed the first shot, before making the second effort to end the Laker scoring drought. Walker picked up two points to make it 55-42, but he fouled out attempting to steal the ball from Mike Wells with 4:06 showing.

Disaster struck the Cubs again the next trip downtown after James Wells had tipped in a missed shot and Mike West fouled the 6-9 CCHS center. With two of their regulars on the sidelines, the visitors were no match for Calloway, who then turned on the steam.

Williams added a lay-up and then Miller slapped one in from the other side of the lane to push the Calloway edge to its widest margin, 62-42, of the second half.

Wells hit a tip-in with 40 seconds remaining before collecting his fifth personal with just nine seconds left in the action. Reserve Greg Byers and Futrell added CCHS's final two markers as each connected on free throws in the final seconds.

Coach King's squad gets a rest this weekend before meeting strong Fourth District rival Marshall County at home on Jan. 21 in what could be a preview of future tournament action for area fans.

Clyde Frazier Scores 30, East Edges West

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

PHOENIX (AP) — Walt "Clyde" Frazier, the New York Knicks' imperturbable guard, came out the biggest winner in the 25th National Basketball Association All-Star Game.

Not only did he receive the game's Most Valuable Player award for scoring 30 points and leading the East to a 108-102 upset victory over the West Tuesday night, but he collected $500.25 ... 25 cents more than any other member of the winning team.

The extra quarter was the result of a "fun bet" Frazier had made prior to the game with the East's 12-year-old ballboy.

The youngster thought the West was going to win and he put up his money against Frazier's. And after the game Frazier was just as willing to take it, after some friendly razzing with the youngster.

This was the second of Frazier's two consecutive brilliant games at Veteran's Memorial Coliseum, where a record crowd of 12,885 turned out for the glittering, nationally televised All-Star Game.

Only last Saturday, in the Knicks' final game prior to the All-Star break, Frazier connected for 43 points — one short of his career high — against the Phoenix Suns.

The 30 points against the West, on 10-of-17 shooting from the floor and 10 of 11 from the free throw line, earned him his first MVP honor in his sixth consecutive All-Star start.

In the MVP balloting, he received 48 1/2 points, one voter splitting his choice between Frazier and Kansas City-Omaha's Nate Archibald, the West's leading scorer with 27 points. Archibald wound up with 1 1/2 votes and his West teammates Rick Barry of Golden State and Sidney Wicks of Portland had one each.

Barry scored 22 points and had game-high figures of eight steals and eight assists while Wicks, playing more than expected because starter Spencer Haywood was suffering from the flu and was forced to the sidelines early in the third quarter, finished with 16 points.

In addition to the play of Frazier and Boston's John Havlicek, who chipped in with 16 points, the East's ability to contain the West's big men was a major factor in its 16th victory against nine losses in the series.

The West's three centers — 7-foot-3 1/2 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, 6-11 Bob Lanier and 6-10 Sam Lacey — combined for only 15 points. Lanier, the MVP in last year's 134-123 victory at Seattle, where he scored 24 points, managed only two this time.

Each member of the losing West received $300.

Prior to the game, NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy announced the league would continue with its present line-up of 18 teams for next season instead of expanding to Toronto, as had been planned.

He said, however, the NBA's Board of Governors had decided that when expansion next SIGNS SCHOLARSHIP—Steve Porter of the Murray High Tigers signs a scholarship to play football at the University of Tennessee. PRESENT FOR SIGNING—Tennessee head coach Bill Battle (left) and assistant coach Gene DeFillippo were present Monday night at the William Porter home when Steve Porter of Murray High signed a scholarship to play football at Tennessee.

Steve Porter Signs Football Scholarship With Tennessee

Steve Porter, a member of the Murray High Tiger football team since his freshman year, has signed a scholarship to the University of Tennessee.

Porter, a 6-4, 240-pound tackle, signed the scholarship at his home Monday night with a handful of honored guests being present.

Present for the event were Volunteer head Coach Bill Battle and assistant coach Gene DeFillippo.

With the signing, Porter becomes the 27th football player to ink a scholarship at Tennessee, leaving the Vols only three more scholarships to fill.

Tennessee had been scouting Porter since his junior year in high school.

"We are extremely happy to have him at Tennessee," Battle said.

"Not only is he an outstanding football player but he is a good student and has great leadership ability."

"We feel that he has a great future at Tennessee. The thing that most impresses me about Steve is the fact he has so much speed to go along with his great size," Battle added.

Porter will probably be used primarily as a defensive tackle, Battle said.

The Vols have one defensive tackle returning and have another letterman and after those two, they will have to depend upon their recruits. Porter is the third defensive tackle signed by Tennessee.

"I liked the coaches and the players at Tennessee and academically, it's a fine school said Porter, who plans to major in business and minor in political science.

Besides playing his senior year for the Class A state champions, Porter has already reaped a bundle of post-season honors.

He was named to the First Team All-WKC, First Team All-State and co-captain by United Press International, First Team All-State by the Courier-Journal, First Team All-State by Associated Press, First Team Mid-South by the Memphis Press Scimitar and First Team All-South, which includes the entire southern part of the United States.

Porter becomes the second member of the Tigers to sign as quarterback Wes Furgerson was inked three weeks ago by Murray State.

Transylvania Gets Win

By The Associated Press
Jim Biven scored 21 points to lead Transylvania in a 94-74 basketball romp over visiting Centre.

In other Kentucky college basketball Tuesday night, three players put in 20 points or more to lead Berea to a 100-94 win over Mount Marty, and Franklin College held off Bellarmine 74-68 at Franklin, Ind.

At Lexington, Centre got within two points, 25-23, with 8:00 left in the first half, but Transylvania poured in 18 of the next 20 points and took a secure 49-31 halftime lead over the Danville, Ky., visitors.

Transylvania, now 9-4, shot 45.6 per cent from the field to Centre's 40.3. Centre, now 3-6, was led by John Darnell with a game-high 23 points.

At Berea, Charlie Turner fired in 26 points and grabbed 20 rebounds to lead the home team. Jerry Harris added 22 points and Gary Ferguson 20 as Berea took an 18-point halftime lead, 50-32, and never trailed.

McGuire And Warriors Put On Show For Crowd

By MIKE O'BRIEN

MILWAUKEE (AP) — He kicked a chair. He cajoled his players. He pleaded with the officials. And he had the Milwaukee Arena capacity crowd of 10,938 in an uproar.

But all Coach Al McGuire really had to do was tell his other Marquette University basketball players to feed Bo Ellis.

Ellis poured in 14 of his 21 points in the second half, most of them at crucial junctures, to lead the 12th-ranked Warriors to a 69-60 victory over No. 20 South Carolina Tuesday night and give Al the rubber match in the running battle of the McGuires.

"No, Al didn't show us anything we hadn't seen before. He just has another good team, a very quick one with very good balance and a good bench," said South Carolina Coach Frank McGuire, who coached Al at St. John's, N.Y., University a quarter century ago.

Al McGuire, while no longer a kid, was sufficiently charged by coaching against his former tutor that he leaped to his feet, whirled and kicked his chair. It happened midway through the first half, when the Gamecocks were encroaching on what had been an eight point Marquette lead.

Marquette built its lead to 10 points two minutes before halftime, then saw it cut to 34-32 early in the second half. Ellis, however, countered with five straight points.

The Gamecocks responded with what proved to be their final threat, closing to within 49-48 behind the outside shooting of Nate Davis and the inside work of 6-foot-9 Tommy Boswell.

But Warriors Earl Tatum, Lloyd Walton and freshman Butch Lee hit successive baskets. A layup and two free throws by Lee, who scored 14 points, made it 61-52 with 5:08 left. Marquette protected its lead by running delay patterns and sinking free throws.

The Marquette-South Carolina game was the highlight of a light college basketball night. No other ranked teams were in action.

Elsewhere, Duquesne beat St. Bonaventure 96-91; North Texas State defeated Bradley 69-64; Princeton whipped Temple 59-48; St. John's, N.Y., downed Rhode Island 100-75; Bucknell ripped Cornell 78-63; the Air Force Academy stopped Southern Colorado State 51-43 and Memphis State routed Buffalo State 138-92. Harvard beat Northeastern 80-67 and Boston College whipped Boston University 86-78 in the first round of the Beanpot Tournament.

Kip McLane poured in 20 points to lead Duquesne to a fast-paced victory over St. Bonaventure. Duquesne, 7-3, led for most of the early going but was overhauled by the Bonnies with 12 minutes to play. St. Bonaventure went ahead on a shot by Greg Sanders, but the Dukes regained the lead for good, 71-70, at the 10:38 mark with a Jesse Hubbard basket.

Terry Bailey and Larry Spruiell led a second-half surge that carried North Texas State University over Bradley. It was Bailey who sank the last two free throws with 31 seconds left in the game that put the victory away for the Mean Green. Mickey Steuwer and Barnes Hauptfuhrer hit short jumpers early and often as Princeton sank 11 of its first 15 shots and went on to an easy victory over Temple.

New Series

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist and Penn State, two teams that battled to a 13-13 tie in the 1948 Cotton Bowl in their only previous meeting, have agreed to a two-game football series — both in University Park, Pa.

The teams will meet Sept. 23, 1978 and Sept. 19, 1981.

Owners And Executive Of WFL To Hold Meeting

By The Associated Press
As the World Football League continues to suffer losses, executives, owners and prospective investors in the league are meeting this week in Honolulu.

The WFL had a bad week last week and this week has been no better. For instance: —Ted Hendricks, an All-Pro linebacker with the Green Bay Packers who had signed with the WFL's Jacksonville franchise, will file suit this week to void his contract with the new league, Hendricks' agent said.

Quarterback Tony Adams of Southern California, the WFL's leading passer and one of three players of the year last year, has been granted release from his contract.

—Five assistant coaches from league runnerup Orlando joined the Chicago Bears Tuesday. They will work under Jack Pardee, who left the same WFL franchise.

Meanwhile, league President Chris Hemminger said he would be meeting with individual owners and prospective investors this week in Honolulu. He said a general league meeting would be held there Thursday afternoon, and that he would continue his search for investors in the coming weeks.

Hemminger would not comment on any success he is or isn't having, but there is no indication that the WFL has more than three stable franchises.

Last week, the league lost Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler in a court decision, three of its most publicized rookies won free agent status and may be negotiating with the National Football League and the Portland franchise had its office furniture and football equipment sold at an auction by the Internal Revenue Service.

29 Million People Helped During 1974 By Care Fund

COLUMBUS — Almost 29 million needy people were helped by CARE food, self-help development, medical and emergency programs in 36 countries of Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East, according to the 1974 annual report just issued by the aid agency.

Declaring that the world food and energy crisis brought an "unprecedented challenge to CARE during the fiscal year," Frank L. Goffio, Executive Director, reported that "contributions from concerned Americans and Canadians totalling $18,633,402 enabled us to help meet that challenge." Contributions were up $4,467,722 over the same 12-month period in the previous year.

With individual contributions as the base, CARE obtained cost and services inputs by the governments of peoples being helped, U. S. government donations of farm commodities, and special project funds from both U. S. and Canadian governments. "All this, combined with frugal management by CARE, stretched every dollar provided by the public to nearly $6 worth of aid supplied to the less fortunate—a total of $109,064,414 in goods and services," Executive Director Goffio explained.

"Central to helping people help themselves is that participating countries and individual beneficiaries invest whatever funds, materials, services they can in CARE programs. Over 130 such people-to-people partnerships were in force in nations around the world last year."

Among highlights of CARE's work during the year:

—More than 20 million people, nearly all children, received daily anti-malnutrition feedings, which not only gave lives but enable youngsters to grow into healthy, productive adults.

—Emergency food, along with medical and other relief aid, went to seven million victims of droughts, floods and other disasters, including such parched African countries as Niger and Chad and, paradoxically, flood-stricken areas in Pakistan and the Philippines. To Indian Villages suffering from drought, CARE delivered 34,850,000 pounds of food for over two million people.

—Through MEDICO, the medical arm of CARE, long-term teams of doctors, nurses, technicians, augmented by over 100 volunteer specialists, helped treat close to one-half million patients, while training local personnel in modern techniques, so they can reach many millions in years to come.

—Numerous and varied self-help agricultural projects to produce more food were accelerated. Families were trained in modern farming techniques and irrigation canals were constructed.

—Other self-help projects ranged from helping build schools in 10 countries to providing safer drinking water right in villages by constructing water systems in 14 countries. Some 185 new school kitchens and 68 additional nutrition centers were also initiated.

"CARE's war on hunger must be stepped up to help stem spreading starvation,"

"With the continued support of CARE's generous friends, and new supporters, we will move ahead helping people around the world shape a better world for themselves and their children." For further information about CARE's programs, contact the Regional CARE Office, 8 E. Chestnut Street, Columbus, Ohio, 43215.

Work Completed On DES System, Communications

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Work has been completed on three transmitting towers and segments of a radio system that ultimately will give the Division of Disaster and Emergency Services (DES) communications coverage over the entire state for the first time.

The towers, which form the base of the communications system, are located behind the Emergency Operations Center in Frankfort's Boone National Guard Center. The operations center will be connected to eight operations bases around the state and is joined to outlying areas of the state through the existing communications facilities of the Kentucky Educational radio-maintenance network, the Kentucky State Police and other agencies with disaster response responsibilities.

According to William Dotson, acting DES deputy director, the system will be of great benefit to the state and to the people affected during any emergency. In addition to improving the old system, the new equipment will enable emergency response workers to contact directly some distant parts of the state and reach the Kentucky National Guard communications network for the first time.

The towers were erected and the radio equipment installed by two crews from the U. S. Army Communication-Electronics Engineering Installation Agency and by people from the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency in Thomasville, Ga. over a two-month period. The eight workers and a supervisor based at Fort Huachuca, Ariz. and Fort Ritchie, Md., completed the entire construction project and the installation of one, though each of the towers weighs about a ton.

"It's like a giant erector set," noted Charles Mayes, the supervisor. "The towers arrive in small pieces and they have to be put together just like a child's toy."

For Kentucky residents, that "toy" could prove to be a lifesaver.

IT'S NOT SO SAFE DOWN ON THE FARM
CHICAGO (AP) — Prairie Farmer magazine reports that rural crime is continuing its sharp upward trend. In 1973, all crime was up 14.6 per cent over the previous year in rural areas. Violent crime, including murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault, was up 28.9 per cent. Property crime, which includes burglary, larceny and auto theft, was up 14.4 per cent.

Prairie Farmer also has found that more youths are involved in crime than ever before. It says the number of rural youngsters under 18 who were arrested for murder increased 123.5 per cent over 1972 and for narcotics offenses there was a 56.9 per cent increase.

Members Of Farm Bureau Can Now Buy Fire Extinguishers

Farm Bureau members in Calloway County may now purchase fire extinguishers for use at home, in farm buildings or on cars and machinery. The items are being made available through the Kentucky Farm Bureau Safety Department to FB members throughout the state.

The fire extinguishers come in two types, and two sizes, according to Calloway County FB President James Stahl. All-purpose (ABC) fire extinguishers are the ones most often recommended for use in both buildings and vehicles. Stahl said: These extinguishers are suitable for putting out all types of fires, including wood, grease, electrical and chemical blazes.

Dry chemical (BC) extinguishers are also available,

Most Auto Accidents Blamed On Driver Error, Not The Car

WASHINGTON, D. C.—More than four out of every five automobile accidents—83.2 percent—are caused by "human factors," mostly driver errors, according to a massive new study of 1,305 accidents by an Indiana University research group for the U. S. Department of Transportation.

Vehicular factors, such as brakes and tires, caused only 4.2 percent of the accidents, the researchers found. The only tires involved in any of the accidents were underinflated or bald.

Environmental factors, such as obstructed field of vision and slick roads, accounted for the rest of the accidents.

"This important report should help put the highway safety picture back into perspective," said Malcolm R. Lovell, Jr., Chairman of the Tire Industry Safety Council. "The main effort now should be to help drivers and improve highways, not to order more expensive changes in automobiles and tires."

The landmark report, called a "Tri-Level Study of the Causes of Traffic Accidents," was made by the Institute for Research in Public Safety of Indiana University under an $880,000 contract with DOT. It covers work done in 1973, the first year of a continuing three-year program to determine the real causes of auto accidents and to recommend "countermeasures" to DOT.

The four leading human factors in accidents are improper lookout, particularly in intersections, excessive speed, inattention and improper evasive action, the report said.

The leading environmental factors are view obstructions, slick roads and roadway design problems.

The most frequent vehicular factors are gross brake failure, and underinflated and bald tires. Properly maintained tires did not cause any of the accidents, however.

"It is interesting to note that neither tire nor wheel failures (due to manufacturing defects) were cited as even possible causes of any of the 1,305 accidents," the report declared.

The tri-level Indiana University study is by far the most comprehensive of auto accidents conducted to date for DOT.

On the first level, investigators analyzed police records of 1,305 accidents in Monroe County, Indiana, which is "representative" of the whole U. S., they said.

At the second level, "on site" investigations of 836 of the accidents were conducted.

Finally, "in depth" investigations were made of 215 accidents by "multidisciplinary teams." These teams included engineers, mechanics, sociologists and reconstruction specialists.

The in-depth teams identified the "definite" causes of accidents as follows: human factors, 83.2 percent; environmental factors, 16.4 percent and vehicular factors, 4.2 percent. These total slightly over 100 percent (103.6) because some accidents had more than one cause.

As the major accident causes, as these might have been both appealing and relatively easily addressed targets," the report said.

"Instead, several other general categories emphasizing human imperfection and carelessness have predominated, the countermeasures for which seem to call primarily for the relatively difficult task of altering human behavior," it added.

The investigators recommended extensive information programs to alert all drivers, young and old, to the need for careful lookout on entering intersections, watching the traffic ahead for sudden stops, monitoring all traffic signs and traveling at reasonable speed.

The report also called for improved programs of periodic motor vehicle inspection by states.

The investigators said their findings support anti-bald tire regulations as part of regular state inspection procedures. They also recommend that police check for bald tires whenever they stop a car to assure compliance with anti-bald tire laws or regulations.

Since underinflation also is a safety hazard, they recommend a tire pressure check as part of the regular inspection program.

Local Weather System In Use For Louisville Area

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The federal government's plan to use FM radio frequencies to warn the public of tornadoes, hurricanes or even nuclear attack may not be coming to this area for a few years, but a local system, somewhat different, is being used now.

Doyle Cook, chief meteorologist for the National Weather Service in Louisville, said, "We will use low-power transmitters on one of the two FM frequencies and eventually we will be getting such a facility here."

The White House Office of Telecommunications Policy decided Saturday that public warnings will be issued through the National Weather Service, which will broadcast 24 hours daily on VHF-FM radio frequencies 162.40 and 162.55 megahertz.

Cook said a local system, paid for "at the expense of county government," enables the National Weather Service at Standiford Field to signal all but two Louisville-area broadcast stations that an emergency message is coming.

Two of the stations did not wish to subscribe to the service.

When a meteorologist lifts a special telephone from the hook, a tone signal is heard in radio and television stations which tells anyone within hearing distance that an emergency message is due.

Cook said WHAS, the prime Emergency Broadcast System (EBS) station here, has incorporated the system into its equipment and meteorologists may go on the air live with the emergency weather message.

Other stations have the same capability, but since WHAS is the prime EBS station it has the advantage of having the live message follow an alert tone that triggers alarm systems in schools, hospitals and factories.

The WHAS signal, 50,000 kilowatts, is the most powerful in Kentucky, and since the station broadcasts fulltime (24 hours) at that power, it gets the prime station designation.

Cook said when the Standiford Field weather service office eventually gets a low-power VHF-FM system, "We will be reaching out 30 to 50 miles, which is what we need now even if we overcover the area somewhat."

The system would provide information for the weather service directly to the listener's radio or television.

Radios and televisions would be activated automatically by a device which would precede emergency messages with a tone.

New radios would be required to have the device as they are manufactured.

"We think the whole thing will be installed within five years," Cook said.

The Declaration of Independence, the Constitution of the United States and the Bill of Rights documents are now enshrined in the National Archives Exhibition Hall.

Laurel County Clerk Under Fire From Citizens' Group

LONDON, Ky. (AP) — Advertising last week by Laurel County's new Committee for Better Government has drawn fire from County Clerk Henry Walden.

A full-page ad in the London Sentinel-Echo listed what it called "a random sampling of the expenses incurred and paid by the Laurel County Fiscal Court for the years 1972, 1973 and 1974."

The list of more than 300 payments, in effect, pointed a finger at Walden, indicating that the fiscal court has approved many payments at Walden's request, to Walden and members of his family.

It also indicated payments to deputy clerk Margaret Vandy and her family.

For example, the ad listed these family payments by the fiscal court during August 1973: Henry Walden, transfer and tax county vehicle, $118.25; Alvin Vandy, work on reorganization of voters, $225; Jimmy Walden, trip to Frankfort to get surplus motors, $75; David Walden, work on voting machines, $225.

Also, George Vandy, delivery of voting machines, $125; Margaret Vandy, work on voting machines, $240; Donna Vandy, delivery of election supplies, $55; Henry Walden, refund on election expense, $165; George Vandy, work on voting machines, $275; James Vandy work on election supplies, $125.

The figures in the ad indicated that Laurel, a county of about 28,000, had expenses for office supplies and related equipment of more than $14,000 in 1973.

In a petition to the fiscal court before the advertisement was purchased, the Committee for Better Government referred to all the payments on the list and said, "We do not feel that all of these are irregular or illegal, but we definitely feel that a portion of these are."

The committee petition said the office supplies paid for by the fiscal court were for the county clerk — which Walden has denied.

Walden has commented little on the petition or the advertisement, except to say he plans a lawsuit.

Boyd Taylor, his attorney, contends the committee's list of payments and the petition are "full of inaccuracies" and amount to "harassment" of his client.

DROEGE SHOW — Anthony Droege, a former faculty member at Murray State University, is shown beside one of the paintings in his one-man show in the Clara M. Eagle Gallery in the Price Doyle Fine Arts Center on the campus. The exhibition of 11 paintings and 14 drawings will remain up through Feb. 5. Droege is now a member of the art faculty at Indiana University at South Bend.

Soviet Union Kills Trade Agreement With United States

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has killed a major trade agreement with the United States and has nullified any understandings to relax restrictions on the emigration of Russian Jews, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says.

In a hurriedly arranged news conference, Kissinger said Tuesday night that "the Soviet government has now informed us that it cannot accept a trading relationship based on the legislation recently enacted in this country."

The Pentagon also disclosed Tuesday that the Soviet Union had begun installing missiles with multiple warheads. The recent U.S.-Soviet arms pact permits such a step.

Kissinger's mention of legislation referred to the new Trade Bill and Export-Import Bank extension act with their restrictions on credits for Moscow and refusal of equal trading arrangements unless Jews are allowed to leave Russia in greater numbers.

He finally compromised with Kissinger and President Ford, agreeing to allow the restrictions to be waived if Ford could give assurances that Soviet emigration restrictions had been eased.

Referring to the Soviet action, Kissinger said "the administration regrets this turn of events. It has regarded and continues to regard an orderly and mutually beneficial trade relationship with the Soviet Union as an important element in the over-all improvement of relations."

Kissinger said he would continue to try for an acceptable U.S.-Soviet trade bill and he refused to be pessimistic about the future of detente.

ings by Kissinger that the Soviets would reject it.

Co-sponsored by more than 70 senators with an equally overwhelming majority favoring similar moves in the House, Jackson demanded that the status not be given to any country seriously restricting emigration of minority groups.

He finally compromised with Kissinger and President Ford, agreeing to allow the restrictions to be waived if Ford could give assurances that Soviet emigration restrictions had been eased.

Referring to the Soviet action, Kissinger said "the administration regrets this turn of events. It has regarded and continues to regard an orderly and mutually beneficial trade relationship with the Soviet Union as an important element in the over-all improvement of relations."

Davis Files For Secretary Of State

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State Treasurer Drexell Davis filed today as a Democratic candidate for secretary of state in the May 27 primary.

Davis said he was running on his record of 23 years of active service in state government.

Davis was clerk of the Court of Appeals from 1964 through 1967, was administrative assistant to the secretary of state for four years before that and has served for 12 years as deputy clerk of the Court of Appeals.

Davis said today he was most proud of changes he has made in state investment policy during his current term as treasurer.

"Among other things, I have raised the interest rate on state time deposits and have instituted a policy of overnight investments that will enable the state to earn substantially more interest income than ever before," he said.

Weisenberger also said his campaign would stress candor and frankness on all issues. "I think the people are tired of the standard 'better roads, better schools, better government' approach used by so many candidates in the past. I believe they are demanding more direct and specific answers on controversial issues and I intend to provide them," he stated.

He said he will continue meeting with the people of the First Senatorial District and will advertise a number of special meetings in advance "in an effort to further learn the problems and ideas of the voters."

He also expressed the opinion that the district traditionally has been overlooked and neglected by previous state administrations, but pointed out that Gov. Julian Carroll, a McCracken countian, is personally acquainted with most of the leaders and the needs of the area and can be expected to do more for Western Kentucky than any governor in recent history. "If elected, I will work with Gov. Carroll in the senate to achieve as much as possible," he pledged.

Although making his first race for public office, Weisenberger has been active in organizational politics for many years. He was state youth chairman for the campaign of A. B. (Happy) Chandler in 1963, First District youth chairman for Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964, Graves County Chairman for Sen. Walter (Dee) Huddleston in 1972 and Graves County co-chairman for Sen. Wendell Ford in 1974.

He also has served as a member of the executive

Ford Delivers State Of Union. . .

wants a new law to require labels on all new automobiles and appliances spelling out how much energy they use.

In addition, the fact sheet said he wants agreement within six months from major manufacturers to develop energy efficiency goals that would achieve an average 20 per cent improvement by 1980. These would cover air conditioners, refrigerators and other home appliances.

"If agreement cannot be reached," the document said, "the President will submit legislation to establish mandatory appliance efficiency standards." The objective for this program alone was fixed at saving half a million barrels of oil a day by 1985.

Calling for congressional action by April 1 to grant individuals 12 per cent cash rebates on 1974 tax payments, with a maximum of $1,000 per return, Ford sketched a rather gloomy picture of current economic conditions.

He said: "I must say to you that the state of the union is not good."

"Millions of Americans are out of work. Recession and inflation are eroding the money of millions more. Prices are too high and sales are too slow."

"This year's federal deficit will be about $30 billion; next year's probably $45 billion. The national debt will rise to over $500 billion."

"Our plant capacity and productivity are not increasing fast enough. We depend on others for essential energy."

"Cutting taxes, now, is essential if we are to turn the economy around," Ford added. "A tax cut offers the best hope of creating more jobs. Unfortunately, it will increase the size of the budget deficit. Therefore, it is more important than ever that we take steps to control the growth of federal expenditures."

Echoing what he said Monday, Ford promised to initiate no new spending programs this year except in the energy field.

"Further, he said, 'I will not hesitate to veto any new spending programs adopted by the

Drive To Oust Hebert From Armed Services Gains Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drive to oust F. Edward Hebert from the chairmanship of the House Armed Services Committee has picked up a veteran organizer, and Hebert is taking the move seriously.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., a member of the House for five years, joined a group of freshmen Democratic congressmen

Tuesday in its push to depose Hebert from the post that has made him one of the most powerful supporters of defense spending.

"The chemistry is there to beat Hebert," Aspin said in an interview. He is an outspoken Hebert foe who put together a liberal-conservative House coalition two years ago which voted to chop $1 billion off the defense budget.

Hebert is asking every Democrat he encounters on the House floor to re-elect him to the Armed Services post when the Democratic caucus votes Thursday on all 21 major committee chairmanships.

But in an interview Hebert refused to predict whether he would win.

In other developments in the new 94th Congress: —Battle lines solidified between his heavily Democratic majority and President Ford over tax and energy programs, even before the President's State of the Union message to spell out the details of his entire economic and energy policy package.

Most Congressional Democrats said the $16 billion tax cut proposed by the President on Monday should be modified to concentrate on lower- and middle-income taxpayers. The White House announced Tuesday a proposed permanent $22.5 billion in additional tax cuts.

Ford's press secretary, Ron Nessen, said the reductions would strongly favor lower in-

Congress."

Ford said some Americans "question their government's ability to make the hard decisions and stick with them."

They expect from Washington "politics as usual," he said.

Asserting that the nation's plight requires "a new partnership between the Congress, the White House and the people we both represent," Ford said: "I want to speak very bluntly. I've got bad news and I don't expect any applause. The American people want action and it will take both the Congress and the President to give them what they want."

In the energy area, Ford said he would propose a 10-year postponement of clean air standards, due to take effect in mid-1975, for power plants that convert from use of oil to coal. He said this would not sacrifice clean air goals but simply delay their implementation.

The President also called for legislation "to make thermal efficiency standards mandatory for all new buildings in the United States," saying these standards would be set "after appropriate consultation with architects, builders and labor."

Espousing a new tax credit of up to $150 for homeowners who install storm windows or other insulation, Ford called for a new federal aid program "to help low-income families purchase insulation supplies."

The fact sheet said he would seek supplemental appropriations of $500 million to carry such a program through 1976.

As he stated on Monday, Ford proposed modifying and deferring auto pollution standards for five years "to enable us to improve new automobile gas mileage 40 per cent by 1980" through voluntary means.

—The Senate prepared to consider the President's nomination of Edward H. Levi, president of the University of Chicago, to be attorney general and his announced intention to nominate William T. Coleman, a Philadelphia lawyer, to be secretary of transportation.

—A consensus developed at a Tuesday caucus of Senate Democrats to establish a special select committee, like the Watergate Committee, to investigate the Central Intelligence Agency. The Democrats will vote on the proposal on Monday.

—Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., acting chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, introduced a national health insurance bill. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., announced that 30 other senators would join him in moving to block planned cutbacks in the food stamp program.

—The House gave the death blow to its Committee on Internal Security, formerly the Committee on Un-American Activities.

—Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., announced a challenge to House Banking Chairman Wright Patman. Reuss said his chances to unseat Patman are "50-50."

—Conservative Republican senators held onto a key leadership position Tuesday by electing Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska to head the Senate Republican Conference.

TVA Chairman Urges Quicker Development Of Nuclear Plants

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—To avoid a prolonged energy crisis, nuclear power plant construction must be accelerated, coal production increased and environmental standards relaxed, Tennessee Valley Authority Chairman Aubrey Wagner has said.

"We must cut the lead time for bringing nuclear plants on line from the present nine or 10 years to six or seven years," Wagner said Tuesday.

"We must find ways to substantially increase coal production," he continued, "at prices the consumer and the economy can afford."

"We must ensure that we do not, through unnecessary restrictive environmental controls, make it impossible or prohibitively expensive to burn the coal after it is mined."

Wagner's remarks came Tuesday during a civic club address and news conference.

"As to environmental controls," Wagner added, "let me be clear that we must maintain a clean and healthy environment and accept the costs that go with it."

"But there must be a benefit from environmental expenditures that is greater than the cost. And since it's your money that is being spent, you should be satisfied that you really want what you will have to pay for."

Asked why TVA did not stockpile more coal last summer before the nationwide United Mine Workers strike led to shortages in November, he replied:

"We could see prices going up and going up. We knew what this would do to your electric bills. We were fighting for a balance between the price of coal and the price of electricity."

"If we had entered into a bidding war for the limited amount of coal that was available last summer and fall, we might have increased our coal supply slightly, but it is doubtful we could have increased it significantly because the supply was fixed."
